

Who should apply

Contributed by Administrator
Sunday, 02 September 2007
Last Updated Thursday, 18 October 2007

This program is for enthusiastic and achieving people from around the world wanting to make some changes around them, get new knowledge, skills and friends and become more useful to their own communities and to the world. It targets:

Graduate students- Meet your colleagues from around the world, make new friends, and improve your knowledge and communication skills.

NGO representatives- chance to meet enthusiasts and other NGO representatives from all over the world and exchange experiences on the projects involving peacekeeping and conflict resolution.

Global/Local Government Agencies and their representatives dedicated to promoting peace and understanding between cultures.

Members of the Government directly involved in peace and conflict management issues and projects.

Academic researchers in this field who further on, pass their gained knowledge and experience to students & future leaders and peace promoters.

People who want to take a chance. Experiencing another culture is an adventure. It will challenge how you view yourself and the world around you. This program is for people who want to open their minds to new ways of thinking.

People who want to make new friends. The program is open to enthusiastic people from around the world. Take the opportunity to make lasting relationships.

People who want to share their own experience and achievements in this field. You will have a chance to present your ideas, experiences and projects in this Conference.