WLEC offers opportunities to:

Learn

From global experts and get first hand advice from leaders in their fields.

Connect

With international community and global stakeholders: scholars, professionals and policy makers

Learn

By broadening your perspectives on global issues and new connections, inspiration and knowledge ### and consists of two components:

Inside the Room:

- Experiential and dynamic learning
- Expansion of beliefs & clarity of perceptions
- Case study reviews
- Implemented working programs

Outside the Room:

At WLEC, we believe in the experience of life, that one learns and is more active when engaging with others and the world in which they are in. We help cultivate and encourage connections, discussions and networking with the other attendees to have deeper conversations while connecting on lifelong levels.

Women's Leadership and Empowerment Conference [WLEC] at a glance:

Multicultural environment: We typically host delegates from 20+ countries in each conference, because we believe in learning from each other and that the ability to understand different cultures and perspectives is what the true education should be.

Inspiring speakers and dynamic themed discussions: We believe that every story matters. Therefore, we give equal opportunities to carefully selected speakers from across the world to tell their stories at WLEC and also invite all delegates to take part in open themed discussions on global issues.

Professional diversity: We host global stakeholders from academic, professional and governmental realms. This diversity of perspectives provides an opportunity to learn and understand how to create sustainable solutions that would work for all.

All age and gender: We believe we can all learn from each other and that every experience and perspective matters. We are proud to host in WLEC both distinguished young professionals and graduate students as well as experienced leaders and scholars.

Meaningful and long-lasting connections: Dynamic program, intimate groups and numerous networking opportunities guarantee new contacts and friendships established at WLEC, with other distinguished delegates from across the world.
